

I imagine, therefore I think; I create, therefore I am.

The arts teach children the risks of becoming trapped in someone else's imagination by empowering them with the discovery of their own.